Regression Testing Phase

Defect Severity Guidelines -

Defect Severity	Description	Examples
Critical	Causes system crash, complete failure, or loss of critical data.	Payment processing double charging issues
High	Major functionality impairment; significant impact on usability.	Homepage image loading issues
Medium	Moderate impact on functionality; workaround available.	Search result sorting issues
Low	Minor inconvenience or cosmetic issues; does not significantly affect functionality.	Cosmetic defects, typos, etc.

Defect Priority Guidelines -

Defect Priority	Description
P1	Critical issues requiring immediate attention; system crashes, data loss, or major functionality breakdown.
P2	High-priority defects with significant impact on user experience or core functionality; requires prompt resolution.
P3	Defects with moderate impact; may have workarounds or affect non-essential features; can be addressed within a reasonable timeframe.

Defect Lifecycles Stages (Status) -

New:

- Definition: The initial stage when a defect is reported.
- Description: The defect has been identified and logged into the system but has not yet been reviewed or assigned to a developer.

Assigned:

- Definition: The defect has been reviewed, and responsibility has been assigned to a specific developer or team.
- Description: The defect is acknowledged, and someone is tasked with investigating and resolving it.

Open:

- Definition: The defect is actively being worked on by the assigned developer.
- Description: The developer is in the process of analyzing, fixing, or implementing a solution for the reported defect.

Rejected:

- Definition: The reported defect is deemed invalid or not reproducible.
- Description: The development team has reviewed the defect report and determined that it is not a genuine issue or cannot be reproduced.

Deferred:

- Definition: The resolution of the defect is postponed to a future release or update.

- Description: The defect is acknowledged as valid, but it is not considered critical or feasible to address in the current development cycle.

In Progress:

- Definition: The defect is actively being worked on by the development team.
- Description: The assigned developer is actively making changes to the codebase to fix the defect.

Duplicate:

- Definition: The reported defect is a duplicate of an existing issue.
- Description: The reported defect is found to be identical or closely related to another defect already logged in the system.

Fixed:

- Definition: The defect has been addressed, and the necessary changes have been made to the code.
- Description: The developer has implemented a solution for the defect, and the changes are ready for testing.

Closed:

- Definition: The defect has been verified, and the resolution is confirmed.
- Description: The testing team has validated the fix, and the defect is considered resolved. No further action is required.

Reopened:

- Definition: The defect was previously closed but has been reported again, indicating that the issue persists or has reoccurred.
- Description: The defect, which was thought to be resolved, has resurfaced or was not completely fixed, requiring further investigation and resolution.
